Mark Lundholm:

Funny man Mark Lundholm is a professional mistake-maker. His resume includes positions such as convicted felon, street addict, closet wino, mental patient, catholic altar boy, and divorced father of three. Mark knows about pain and gain in life.

He has recently remarried and is the proud father of a baby boy. His insight into the inherent irony of it all forms a unique foundation for his theatre show, his stand up comedy shows as well as his inspirational speaking engagements.

Mark also makes time to do stand-up comedy in "A" clubs nation-wide, and motivational speaking engagements from corporate events to correctional facilities to colleges and conferences for counselors, physicians and other health care professionals.

Gary Echt:

Gary Echt, from Advanced Psychotherapy Services, a licensed Professional Clinical Counselor, with over twenty years experience will facilitate the conversation of four survivors. He will guide them through sharing their stories of surviving the aftermath of suicide.

Dr. Nora McNamara:

Dr. Nora McNamara (M.D.) is a highly regarded specialist in the Department of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry, University Hospitals. She is a versatile physician who not only works with children and teenagers who suffer from psychological disorders but also participates in cutting-edge research to find effective treatments and cures for those disorders. Dr. McNamara will speak about dual-diagnosis in adolescents and the need for treatment to prevent suicide.
